

Nature: Inspiration in Challenging Times

Part of the Epiphany Group 'Six Days' series

Saturday Workshop: 6 June 2015 10am - 4pm

Church of the Good Shepherd (Hall), Murrayfield Avenue, Edinburgh

"There is so much that is being said in the universe and in our hearts that deserves ...attention - some of it is the music of beauty and awe and wonder; and some of it is the lamentation of grief and anger, sadness and sorrow. All of it deserves our listening."

Matthew Fox

We know we live in challenging times.
What helps us give our best response to concerns about the world?
How can we respond in a loving way to make a difference?

The day is an opportunity to listen.... to participate.....
to be strengthened..... and inspired.... in this reflective introduction to
'The Work That Reconnects',
an experiential, transformative spiral of four stages, developed by Joanna Macy and colleagues in response to these questions.
www.workthatreconnects.org

The day will include experiential practices, inspirational readings, movement outdoors and simple ritual.

It is facilitated by Julie Gibson, member of the Coach House Retreat Team, Inverness, and Chris Johnstone, co-author (with Joanna Macy)
of 'Active Hope'.

Cost £25 including soup lunch. Bursaries available.

For booking form contact sixdaysedinburgh@yahoo.co.uk or phone 07952198379

Drawing by Dori Midnight from Joanna Macy's website

www.epiphanygroup.org.uk